

Looking to join a startup?

Career opportunities are available for imaging scientists, RF engineers, image reconstruction experts, electrical engineers and pulse sequence specialists at Promaxo. Promaxo is an MRI startup developing an office based, low field surface MRI for prostate imaging, as well as other applications. We are located in Oakland, California, a short distance away from Silicon Valley and San Francisco.

We are looking for dedicated applicants who want to be on the cutting edge of MRI. To apply for a position, send an email to hello@promaxo.com or to mgomes@promaxo.com. Both permanent positions and internships are available at Promaxo. We offer competitive pay and stock options to our employees.

Promaxo is also open to collaboration with research laboratories. We have already started working with research groups and would like to continue working with academia on innovative low field MRI techniques and instrumentation. If you would like your research group to collaborate with us, please contact us at the above emails.